10 Days to Great Self Esteem	David Burns	Dr Burns' book 10 Days to Great Self-Esteem offers a very practical step-by-step guide which could help most of us feel better about ourselves. Full of charts and assignments, this book has no use for discovering why you might feel low. Instead it uses cognitive behavioural therapy which means think about it a different way and you'll feel different. "Your thoughts--not events--create your moods. Bad things that happen do not really cause us to become upset. We get upset because of the way we think about these events", explains Burns. If you have persistent negative thoughts, Burns suggests a cost-benefit analysis of the advantages and disadvantages of thinking that way. Seeing it written down makes it much easier to challenge.
Anything or Nothing (Self-guide for People with Bipolar Disorder)	Marc De Hert...	Guide for people with bi-polar disorder. English version in collaboration with Dr Allan Young and his team.
Assertiveness – Step by Step	Dr Windy Dryden & Daniel Constantinou	There are times when we all need to be more assertive, to be positive about ourselves and about others, to show respect for others by respecting ourselves. This book puts assertiveness in context and offers practical, thoroughly researched, tried and tested advice.
Better Relationships	Sarah Litvinoff	This guide offers practical exercises and guidelines to increase mutual understanding amongst married couples, tackling issues of confrontation and commitment, amongst others.
Beyond Anger - a guide for men	Thomas Harbin	It's not a new idea that men tend to express their anger differently than women do. Years of research have shown that men – for many different and complex reasons – are often more violent and less willing to confront and deal with their emotions than women. Now Beyond Anger shows the angry – and miserable – man how to change his life and relationships for the better. It is an invaluable guide for the many men struggling to come to terms with their inner battles and to take positive action, and for everyone who has an angry man in their life.

Beyond Toddlerdom	Dr Christopher Green	Christopher Green has written BEYOND TODDLERDOM for all those parents in need of calm and wise advice on parenting the 5-10 year age group. The 5-10s have to face a number of developmental hurdles. They become aware of the world outside the home. They will start school, make friends, take up hobbies and develop personal interests. They may move house, may live through a parental divorce, and will develop personality patterns that will stay with them for life. It is an important time. Writing with his usual humorous, practical and down-to earth style, Chris Green draws on his many years of expertise as a paediatrician, father and grandfather to enable parents to understand their Child's needs and development during their pre-teen years. He takes full account of all the physical, psychological and sociological influences that are of importance during this time - and helps parents to make appropriate decisions about everything from friends to homework, sibling rivalry to positive discipline.

Control Stress - Stop Worrying and Feel Good Now (book & CD)	Paul McKenna	Everyone has some degree of stress in their life, but hardly anyone has the skills to deal with it. An astonishing 50 per cent of the reasons why people go to the doctor are stress-related, and one recent scientific study showed that in the current economic climate, more people are missing work from stress-related problems than ever before. Read this book and, as a result of having greater control over the stress in your life, you will feel better and live longer. Your immune system will be stronger, your stamina will be significantly increased, and you will make better decisions. Better still, the overall quality of your life will be significantly enhanced! More than just a book, this is a stress control system, with a powerful hypnosis CD that will help you achieve deep states of relaxation, have more energy and be more effective in your everyday life. Over 25 years of research and months of careful scripting, Paul McKenna has created a daily companion that will allow you to access your body's natural capacity for instant calm. As you learn to change your response to stress and worry, you v

Irritable Bowel solutions	Prof John Hunter	Irritable bowel syndrome (IBS) is one of the most common gastrointestinal disorders, but it is puzzling for those who have it and for the doctors who treat it. The term 'irritable' is used to describe the reaction of the muscles in the intestine, which respond to stress by abnormal contractions which may result in various combinations of the three main symptoms of IBS: pain, diarrhoea and constipation. There is no test that can show whether or not you have IBS. Nor is there any clear-cut cure for the disorder. However treatment can relieve the symptoms and, with support from your doctor, you can learn to live with it.
Living with Bereavement	Alex James	Alex James is an experienced professional bereavement counsellor/consultant who has been working with bereaved individuals and families for many years. Specialising in sudden traumatic bereavement, Alex has worked for agencies as a trauma support worker, trainer and voluntarily for a charitable trust supporting those impacted by road death. A key part of Alex's work has been with online bereavement groups where she offers confidential e-mail support 365 days a year. Alex has appeared on national and local radio and is the author of Living With Bereavement.

Moving On (Breaking up without breaking down)	Suzie Hayman	One in three marriages ends in divorce. Cohabitation, marriage, divorce and re-marriage are becoming a normal part of the pattern of everyday life. However, the effects of such a pattern on the adults and children involved can be extremely detrimental if handled badly. In the Relate Guide to Moving On, Suzie Hayman draws on her many years experience as a Relate counsellor and agony aunt and provides information, advice and practical strategies to help you cope, as positively as possible, with the stress of breaking up with your partner. You will learn how to manage negative feelings, help your children through the difficult process, communicate with your partner and children throughout, cope with shared parenting responsibilities and sort out financial issues. Sympathetic, sound and full of positive, practical advice, this is an invaluable guide for all those facing the breakdown of their relationship.

New Toddler Taming	Dr Christopher Green	Many parents wonder how the sweet, chubby baby which gurgles happily at them for the first twelve months changes so suddenly into a bellowing, tantrum prone, heel drumming, carpet biting toddler. What's gone wrong? Whose fault is it? What can be done about it? Dr Christopher Green's classic bestseller has been revised and updated to answer these questions and others like them in a way that parents of the twenty-first century will instantly grasp. Dr Christopher Green quickly calms fear of 'abnormal' bad behaviour, points out the inevitable strains of bringing up children and offers invaluable practical advice on all fronts from sleeping problems and tantrums to toilet training. This new edition also includes updated information on childhood eating habits, sibling rivalry and discipline. Light-hearted and authoritative, "New Toddler Taming" is a must for family sanity!
On Becoming A Person	Carl R. Rogers	Finding the path to personal growth and harmonious maturity. In this book, one of America's most distinguished psychologists describes his experiences in helping people to discover the path to personal growth through an understanding of their own limitations and potential.
Overcoming Agoraphobia	Mellisa Murphy	Fear, essential for the survival of the species, is built into our DNA, but when this primitive instinct gets out of control, the resulting anxiety can be paralysing. Agoraphobia is a common complication of anxiety disorder, twice as common in women than in men, and literally means a fear of open spaces. But the reality for house-bound sufferers is a crippling fear of leaving the safety zone of the home in case a panic attack occurs. Agoraphobics are by definition isolated from the help they so desperately need, and friends and family are not always sympathetic. "Overcoming Agoraphobia" aims to help agoraphobics redefine their safety zone, so that no matter where they are, they are, they retain a sense of safety and calm. It covers the latest medical research and treatments, as well as practical issues such as work, benefits and disability badges. Topics include: symptoms and triggers; how to access help from your doctor, and medication; avoiding isolation - what to tell family, friends and colleagues; body matters - including nutrition, fitness and Overcoming Childhood Trauma	Helen Kennerley	A self-help guide using cognitive behavioural techniques. CBT treats emotional disorders by changing negative patterns of thought. This book is for those who have suffered abuse in childhood and who now struggle with the legacy of this. Abuse in childhood can be the source of enduring difficulties for many, whether the abuse was emotional, physical or sexual in nature. This book will help the sufferer understand the links between past trauma and present difficulties and will offer ways to gain control over these problems, allowing the reader to deal with intrusive memories, manage mood swings and build better relationships in adulthood.

Overcoming Chronic Pain	Cole, Macdonald	Chronic pain does not need to dominate your life. The health team behind this book has established a self-help method based on techniques tested with patients in community and hospital programs .
Overcoming Depression	Paul Gilbert	A self-help guide using Cognitive Behavioral Techniques, this book is full of step-by-step suggestions, case examples and practical ideas for gaining control over depression and low mood; it is an indispensable guide for those affected, their friends and families, psychologists and those working in the medical profession.
Overcoming Insomnia and Sleep Problems	Colin Espie	Being unable to sleep is one of the most common health problems - one in 10 adults and 1 in 5 of those over the age of 65 suffer from insomnia. Billions of pounds are spent worldwide each year on prescribed medications and over-the-counter remedies, often with little real benefit to the sufferer. Extensive research conducted over 25 years has now established cognitive behavioral therapy as the treatment of choice. For the first time these CBT principles have now been brought together into one comprehensive self-help manual. This manual teaches you how to ensure your bedroom encourages a good night's sleep; how to develop good pre-bedtime routines; how to deal with a racing mind; and how to relax. It helps in establishing a new sleeping and waking pattern. It teaches us how to make effective use of sleeping pills and also helps in dealing with special problems including jet lag and sleepwalking.

Overcoming Social Anxiety and Shyness	Gillian Butler	Step-by-step guides to self-improvement that introduce the methods of the highly regarded cognitive behavioural therapy technique to help readers conquer a broad range of disabling conditions—from worry to body image problems to obsessive compulsive disorder and more. The accessible, straightforward, and practical books in the "Overcoming" series treat disorders by changing unhelpful patterns of behaviour and thought. Cognitive behavioural therapy (CBT) was developed by psychiatrist Aaron T. Beck and is now internationally favoured as a practical means of overcoming longstanding and disabling conditions, both psychological and physical. CBT insists that our "thoughts" cause our feelings and behaviours. Even when our situation does not change, if we change the self-defeating ways we think, we can make ourselves feel better. This positive, pragmatic approach is popular with therapists and patients alike. Books in the "Overcoming" Series: highlight the history and background of the disorder, who is likely to be affected, and what the main symptoms are provide a structural
Panic Attacks	Christine Ingham	Our guide explains what panic attacks are, why they happen and what every sufferer can do to empower themselves, regain control and make panic a thing of the past. Sectioned A life interrupted	John O'Donoghue	"I've been sectioned five times, in and out of asylums, homeless hostels, squats and on the streets. I nearly hit the end of the road...But then, almost overnight, my life turned around. Sectioned is my story. "
Self Help for Your Nerves: Learn to Relax and Enjoy Life Again by Overcoming Stress and Fear	Claire Weekes	Dr Claire Weekes offers comprehensive advice for coping with nervous stress by illustrating how simply nervous illness can begin and then developing a practical programme for its cure. Self Help for your Nerves shows us how to dispel feelings of bewilderment and fear and start building confidence and understanding. This world-renowned book is recommended by doctors and is used in medical clinics around the globe. It has been published in eight different languages and is an international bestseller.
Self-esteem Games	Barbara Sher	The key ingredient in children's development, emotionally, socially, and intellectually, is a strong sense of their own self-worth. The 300 games and activities in this fun book will give them just that. These joyful activities help children learn how to make friends, express feelings, trust others, accept themselves, use their imaginations, and more. The book combines upbeat, positive advice—including tips for better parenting—with step-by-step directions for each activity.

Social Skills Games for Children	Deborah M. Plummer	Featuring a wealth of familiar and easy-to-learn games, this practical handbook is designed to foster successful social strategies for children aged 5-12, and will help adults to understand and reflect constructively on children's social skills. The book covers the theory behind the games in accessible language, and includes a broad range of enjoyable activities: active and passive, verbal and non-verbal, and for different sized groups. Deborah Plummer addresses issues that might arise when supporting children with a range of communication differences, including children with learning differences, and offers a variety of cognitive and behavioural strategies to help children to reinforce the skills explored in the games. This is an ideal resource for teachers, parents, carers and all those working to improve the social skills of children.
Stick up for yourself Kids guide to self – esteem	Gershen Kaufman	Simple words and real-life examples teach assertiveness, responsibility, relationship skills, choice making, problem solving, goal setting, anger management, and more. Children learn how to stick up for themselves with other kids (including bullies), siblings, even grown-ups.
Stop Arguing Start Talking	Susan Quilliam	Aims to help couples break free of old patterns of behaviour and avoid using words as weapons when the going gets tough. Encourages upfront discussion rather than resorting to nagging, and to bring discussion rather than confrontation back into your relationship.
Surviving Postnatal Depression	Cara Aiken	Research indicates that at least one in ten mothers experience post-natal depression, yet there is little help available to sufferers. This book aims to help them, and the professionals who work with them, to understand this illness. The book tells the stories of ten women from very different backgrounds - including the author - who have suffered post-natal depression. Their stories should be a source of strength and hope for other sufferers and should also raise awareness of the illness and the destructive effect it can have on individuals and families. The book offers positive suggestions and practical advice, based on personal and professional experience.
